

DROPS OF MAGIC!
LIFT OUT CORNS
Sore, touchy corns stop hurting, then lift right out with fingers

Just ask at any drug store for a small bottle of foot powder. Apply a few drops upon a tender, aching corn or callus and instantly all soreness disappears and shortly you will find the corn or callus so loose that you lift it off with the fingers.

Just think! Not one bit of pain before applying foot powder or afterwards. It doesn't even irritate the surrounding skin.

Hard corns, soft corns, or corns between the toes, also hardened calluses on bottom of feet, disappear and fall off without hurting a particle. It is almost magical.

Ladies! Keep a tiny bottle of the dressing and never let a corn or callus ache twice.

Who Wants a Victrola?
Well, we can show you a plan where by the expense of a few cents you can own one of the best Victrolas in the world.

(Cut out and mail coupon today)
PLAUT-CADDEN BUILDING,
135-143 Main St., Norwich, Conn.
Please send me catalogue and list describing the conditions and terms and full particulars regarding your easy payment plan.

Name.....
Street.....
Town.....
State.....

CHIROPRACTIC ADJUSTMENT
Is a natural health method which enables nature to restore your health more effectively and permanently than any known health method. No medicine, surgery or osteopathy used.

Chiropractic Institute
J. O. Zimmermann, A. C.
Licensed Dr. of Chiropractic
220-221 Thayer Bldg., Norwich, Conn.

Dr. Alfred Richards
DENTIST
Office Hours:
9-12 a. m.—1-2 p. m.
Wed and Sat. Evenings 7-9 p. m.
Room 303 Thayer Building.
Tel. 229 Residence Tel. 1235

French-American Fur Co.
Guarantee all work. We make no charge for storage. Discounts on all furs. Uncured skins wanted.

Practical Furrier
H. J. YURMAN, Proprietor
Tel. 1301-4 Room 106, Thayer Bldg.

NOTICE
Painting, Paperhanging, Plastering and also a specialty in Decorating and Graining. Removal of old wallpaper. Work in the windows of No. 15 Main St.
L. REHMAN.
Tel. 1245-6
August 15, 1917

DR. R. J. COLLINS
DENTIST
148 Main Street, Norwich, Conn.
Tutts Phone 1178

190 Franklin St.
IS THE PLACE TO GET A NICE ROAST BEEF AS WELL AS A NICE PIECE OF CORNED BEEF OR ANYTHING IN THE MEAT LINE.

VAL LUPPERT
Largest Assortment of
DIAMOND JEWELRY
BROOCHES
SCARF PINS
RINGS
PENDANTS
BRACELET WATCHES
RADIOLITE STRAP
WATCHES, ETC.

John & Geo. H. Bliss
Largest Assortment of
DIAMOND JEWELRY
BROOCHES
SCARF PINS
RINGS
PENDANTS
BRACELET WATCHES
RADIOLITE STRAP
WATCHES, ETC.

Ernest E. Bullard
VIOLIN
TEACHER
All String Instruments repaired
Violins sold on easy terms.
For appointments address E. E. BULLARD, 610-612 Main St., Norwich, Conn.

The Bulletin

Norwich, Tuesday, Jan. 29, 1918.

VARIOUS MATTERS

Light vehicle lamps at 5.50 o'clock this evening.

This year Lent begins Feb. 13 and Easter is March 31.

Rain is predicted for the closing days of January and may carry off some of the snow.

Meeting of Sons of Veterans Tuesday evening, 7.45, Buckingham Memorial hall.

The informal Mardi Gras social affair planned will have a military character this year.

The light snow which fell yesterday covered the ice so as to make careless walking a bit hazardous.

Bitter cold marked the early hours of Monday, the mercury dropping to six and eight degrees in some localities.

The women of Moosehead Legion had planned a ladies meeting Wednesday, but have deferred it for a week.

Mr. James G. Hammond, known to the theatregoers as Clara Turner, is very ill with grip at her home near the Golden Spur.

Tomorrow (Wednesday) is "Tag the snow" day when the children will do their share in helping toward coal conservation.

At the Voluntary Center school Miss Lillian Cooper of Central Village is the new teacher this term, succeeding Miss Rainey.

In the effort to conserve coal, all services at St. Patrick's church this week, funerals, weddings, etc., will be held in the basement chapel.

The funeral of John Ramage of 15 Thirteenth street will be held Wednesday instead of Tuesday—adv.

At Niantic there is a project to make free service flags available for all who will notify the local chairman of the state council of defense, Mrs. James Bond.

Housekeepers who are studying table economies are being advised by food experts to extend their acquaintance with the fish that are being brought to market.

Chief Clerk A. J. Wright of the state school grants has received reports, he announces, from every town in the state but Canterbury. Efforts to get this report have failed.

Washington's Birthday, February 22, has been decided upon as Yale Alumni University Day, when the Yale graduates are to return to see the university in its "working clothes."

Notice has been received in Connecticut that this week Wednesday—the National Society, Daughters of the Union will hold their annual convention at Hotel McAlpin, New York.

Two stars on the service flag displayed at the home of J. H. McIntyre, 152 Broad street, are for John Henry McIntyre, at Camp Devens, and Charles McIntyre, at Newport.

Social whist and 45, Wednesday evening, Jan. 30th, C. of C. rooms. Tickets 25c. Cards 8 to 10. Dancing—adv.

Rev. Arthur P. Purkiss, pastor of the Central Baptist church, Norwich, will hold his stars service at the First Methodist church, Hartford, Sunday morning in exchange with Rev. Dr. C. C. Wright.

The former scholarly and well informed librarian at Otis Library, Norwich, Mr. J. H. McIntyre, is fairly good health at his home on Peckham avenue, although not getting out much during the winter.

State Supervisor of Schools O. E. Lowell, of Laurel Hill avenue, Norwich, will hold his stars service at the school at Poponetuck, where there are between 40 and 50 pupils.

Doss Farmer Walter Plummer and his two assistants at Backus hospital here, are greatly pleased with the success of the recently opened model school at Poponetuck, where there are between 40 and 50 pupils.

The annual meeting of the Triple L Legion, held at the hotel here last evening, Feb. 1st, 1918, at 8 o'clock, in Odd Fellows hall, Ashley T. Boon, secretary—adv.

Funeral services for Charles H. Strennell, 64, whose death occurred Tuesday evening, were held in St. John's hall at 230 Elm street Monday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock. Burial was in Evergreen cemetery, Harmony lodge, O. O. F., conducting the services at the grave.

At St. Patrick's church Monday at 8 o'clock there was a month's mind solemn high mass of requiem for Mrs. John P. Driscoll, late of Asylum street. Burial was in St. John's cemetery, being celebrated by Rev. Peter J. Cuny, deacon and Rev. Myles P. Galvin sub-deacon.

The Windermere Mill at Rockville is undergoing repairs, damage being done by a heavy wind storm, the high winds blowing off the roof on one end of the mill. The grounds and building will be occupied by the coming season by the Collegiate Ballroom School.

Judge Gardner Greene of Norwich has agreed to change assignments with Judge Lucien F. Burpee. Consequently he will finish superior court sittings at Hartford Thursday and then go to New London and take Judge Burpee's assignment; and Judge Burpee will go to Hartford to hold court.

Special communication of St. James' lodge, No. 23, at Masonic Temple to-night at 7.30. Work at the lodge is under special dispensation, building on several petitions will be permitted—adv.

Monday's New Haven Journal-Courier said: Sister Therese, a noble character that she has heard from Hartford, died yesterday at St. Raphael's Hospital after a short illness. The body will be taken to Hartford where the funeral will be held from St. Joseph's cathedral.

According to the 1917 report of contributions to the Society for the Propagation of the Faith, this Catholic diocese gave a total of $3,956.69, including a formal disburse of $2,175.64. St. Patrick's church, Norwich, is credited with $128.70 and St. Edward's, Stafford Springs, with $6.

The state agent of the D. A. R., Mrs. John L. Buel, tells the Daughters that she has heard from Hartford, there is to be a movement launched in the state to "Wear Out Your Clothes Until the End." It would be a saving to the country and the individual as well, Mrs. Buel claims.

PERSONALS

Dr. Lillian Lyness was in Hartford to attend the annual meeting of the State Osteopathic association Saturday.

Mrs. Alice Hunt, president of the Niantic Equal Franchise league, attended the patriotic exhibition of war foods held at the Buckingham memorial in Norwich.

Joseph Vera, who has friends in this city and Jewett City, writes that he is located in the Maine woods near Ashland of that state, but thinks it a mistake for anyone to engage the main work when they can get better pay elsewhere.

HIGHLAND HOTEL AND MORRISSEY'S SALOON GUTTED
Early Morning Fire Badly Damaged Railroad Avenue Building—Telephone Call for Chimney Fire on Laurel Hill at Same Time.

The two story brick building at No. 10 Railroad avenue, owned by John Steiner and leased as a saloon, hotel, known as The Highland hotel, by Dennis J. Morrissey, was badly gutted by fire which broke out about 11 o'clock this (Tuesday) morning.

The fire had its origin in the cellar, presumably near the heater, in which it is understood wood is being burned owing to the coal shortage, and worked its way up through the building, breaking through the roof. Frank Dunn, employed as bartender in the saloon, and who was asleep in his room in the hotel, escaped, and the several guests in the hotel, whom Mr. Dunn said are strangers to him, also got safely out of the burning building. One man came down a ladder raised by firemen.

Officer Daniel O'Neill, who was on duty at the station, said he saw someone yell "Fire!" He started down Perry street, and a railroad man who was running up Perry street to Main street told him that Morrissey's saloon, Officer O'Neill pulled in box 25, Franklin square, near Perry street.

The auto pumper and aerial truck from the Central station, the Main street auto and the West Side chemical responded. When the firemen arrived on the scene dense clouds of smoke were pouring from the windows and doors of the hotel, and one of the guests was in a second story window, waving for a ladder which was quickly run up. He took the situation coolly and calmly, watched the firemen raising the ladder.

The firemen saw a cellar window smoke was issuing in dense clouds, and first glance gave the impression that the interior of the cellar was a roaring furnace. One of the half dozen lines of hose laid was directed through the cellar window, another was pouring a stream into the ground story, and still another was run up through the alleyway between the Highland house and the Union hotel, next door, where it did good service.

The fire had gained such headway before the fire was discovered that they shot rapidly up through the center of the building from the cellar and were soon breaking out through the roof. The firemen ran a line of hose up to the roof and the stream checked the flames.

By this time the fire was eating its way through the partition that divides the Highland house proper from the saloon, which also escaped. The fire in the saloon entrance was used with good effect in preventing the flames from spreading.

The firemen were greatly hampered by the dense smoke which hung close to the ground and enveloped the building. Fire in the partitions gave them a hard fight for a while. The fire in the saloon entrance was used with good effect in preventing the flames from spreading.

Just after the alarm had rung from box 25 there was a telephone call for a chimney fire at No. 231 Laurel Hill avenue, occupied by Nicholas Brown. The auto pumper was sent from the station and a fireman was dispatched.

Chief H. L. Stanton also responded to the call. The chimney blaze was quickly extinguished. The Falls company, which also responded, was sent to the Laurel Hill call, met by the chief on the way back and sent to the Railroad avenue fire.

OBITUARY.
Patrick J. Cassidy, M. D.

Following an illness of several months' duration, Dr. Patrick J. Cassidy, well known physician and surgeon, died at his home, 43 Church street, Monday morning at 10 o'clock.

Dr. Cassidy was born in this city on July 6, 1874, the son of Dr. and the late Mrs. Patrick Cassidy. He received his education in the public schools here, being one of the youngest pupils to enter the Norwich Free Academy, from which he graduated in 1890. He was graduated from Yale university in 1894 and from Johns Hopkins in 1897.

For a time after his graduation from medical school he practiced surgery in New London, later coming to this city where he has since practiced, being considered one of the leading physicians and surgeons in the city.

For a long period he was attending surgeon at the William W. Backus hospital and pathologist of the institution. He was a member of the State Medical association and also of the Norwich Medical association and the New London County association. He was a member of the town school committee ever since the consolidation of the schools in the city. He was also a member of the College of Physicians and Surgeons and a fellow of the American Medical association.

He belonged to the Norwich Golf club and to the Court City of Norwich, F. of A. He was appointed a lieutenant in the reserve medical corps and had been ordered to report for duty but was unable to do so owing to his illness.

Surviving are his wife, who was Miss Jane Hall, of Willimantic, and two daughters, Jane and Patricia. He also leaves his father, Dr. Patrick Cassidy, of this city, four brothers, John H., an attorney at Waterbury, Dr. Louis T., of Norwich, Richard E., a lieutenant commander in the U. S. navy, Charles W., a member of the school aeronautics at Cornell university, Ithaca, N. Y., and two sisters, Mrs. J. Edward Driscoll of this city and Mrs. Mary C. Cahill of New York.

Files $4,000 Action.
The David Stevenson Brewing company has filed a $4,000 action against Frank Oswald et al. of this city. The suit is brought on the common counts.

CAMP DEVENS AT THE Y. M. C. A.

Moving Pictures of Ayer Cantonment Thrown on Screen at Open Meeting of Norwich Chamber of Commerce—Local Home Guard Companies Attend in Uniform—Secretary's Report Read and Accepted.

An open meeting of the Norwich Chamber of Commerce, held at the Y. M. C. A. with a large number present, included in the large gathering were the two local companies of the Home Guard, members of the Norwich Chamber and parents and friends of the drafted men who are at Camp Devens. F. W. Cary, president of the local chamber of commerce, presided at the meeting and in his welcoming address said:

Welcomes by President Cary.
Members of the Norwich Chamber of Commerce, officers and fellow members of the Norwich Home Guard, and friends of enlisted men: We welcome you to this evening's meeting. The purpose of the meeting is two fold. First, to bring together the workers and defenders of the community to promote harmony and cooperation, and encourage the community spirit. Secondly, to bring to you more forcibly, if such a thing is possible, the enormous tasks that are before us, and the need of our unpreparedness for war and what has been accomplished in an incredibly short space of time.

The cantonment at Ayer known as Camp Devens, was built by the Fred T. Lay company of Springfield, Mass. Mr. Goggin dealt with the construction of this camp from the contractor's standpoint. He sketched the plan of the cantonment, showing the necessary steps Washington took to prepare for the training of our draft men, and the construction of the camp. He followed the work stage from the day the engineers first inspected the site until September 1st, which was the completion date of the work originally scheduled by the government.

A Difficult Proposition.
The construction of the camp was a difficult proposition to contend with, difficult both in the sense of the word, but in the sense of the word, it was a difficult proposition to contend with, difficult both in the sense of the word, but in the sense of the word, it was a difficult proposition to contend with.

The construction of the camp was a difficult proposition to contend with, difficult both in the sense of the word, but in the sense of the word, it was a difficult proposition to contend with, difficult both in the sense of the word, but in the sense of the word, it was a difficult proposition to contend with.

The construction of the camp was a difficult proposition to contend with, difficult both in the sense of the word, but in the sense of the word, it was a difficult proposition to contend with, difficult both in the sense of the word, but in the sense of the word, it was a difficult proposition to contend with.

The construction of the camp was a difficult proposition to contend with, difficult both in the sense of the word, but in the sense of the word, it was a difficult proposition to contend with, difficult both in the sense of the word, but in the sense of the word, it was a difficult proposition to contend with.

The construction of the camp was a difficult proposition to contend with, difficult both in the sense of the word, but in the sense of the word, it was a difficult proposition to contend with, difficult both in the sense of the word, but in the sense of the word, it was a difficult proposition to contend with.

The construction of the camp was a difficult proposition to contend with, difficult both in the sense of the word, but in the sense of the word, it was a difficult proposition to contend with, difficult both in the sense of the word, but in the sense of the word, it was a difficult proposition to contend with.

The construction of the camp was a difficult proposition to contend with, difficult both in the sense of the word, but in the sense of the word, it was a difficult proposition to contend with, difficult both in the sense of the word, but in the sense of the word, it was a difficult proposition to contend with.

The construction of the camp was a difficult proposition to contend with, difficult both in the sense of the word, but in the sense of the word, it was a difficult proposition to contend with, difficult both in the sense of the word, but in the sense of the word, it was a difficult proposition to contend with.

The construction of the camp was a difficult proposition to contend with, difficult both in the sense of the word, but in the sense of the word, it was a difficult proposition to contend with, difficult both in the sense of the word, but in the sense of the word, it was a difficult proposition to contend with.

The construction of the camp was a difficult proposition to contend with, difficult both in the sense of the word, but in the sense of the word, it was a difficult proposition to contend with, difficult both in the sense of the word, but in the sense of the word, it was a difficult proposition to contend with.

The construction of the camp was a difficult proposition to contend with, difficult both in the sense of the word, but in the sense of the word, it was a difficult proposition to contend with, difficult both in the sense of the word, but in the sense of the word, it was a difficult proposition to contend with.

The construction of the camp was a difficult proposition to contend with, difficult both in the sense of the word, but in the sense of the word, it was a difficult proposition to contend with, difficult both in the sense of the word, but in the sense of the word, it was a difficult proposition to contend with.

The construction of the camp was a difficult proposition to contend with, difficult both in the sense of the word, but in the sense of the word, it was a difficult proposition to contend with, difficult both in the sense of the word, but in the sense of the word, it was a difficult proposition to contend with.

The construction of the camp was a difficult proposition to contend with, difficult both in the sense of the word, but in the sense of the word, it was a difficult proposition to contend with, difficult both in the sense of the word, but in the sense of the word, it was a difficult proposition to contend with.

The construction of the camp was a difficult proposition to contend with, difficult both in the sense of the word, but in the sense of the word, it was a difficult proposition to contend with, difficult both in the sense of the word, but in the sense of the word, it was a difficult proposition to contend with.

The construction of the camp was a difficult proposition to contend with, difficult both in the sense of the word, but in the sense of the word, it was a difficult proposition to contend with, difficult both in the sense of the word, but in the sense of the word, it was a difficult proposition to contend with.

The construction of the camp was a difficult proposition to contend with, difficult both in the sense of the word, but in the sense of the word, it was a difficult proposition to contend with, difficult both in the sense of the word, but in the sense of the word, it was a difficult proposition to contend with.

The construction of the camp was a difficult proposition to contend with, difficult both in the sense of the word, but in the sense of the word, it was a difficult proposition to contend with, difficult both in the sense of the word, but in the sense of the word, it was a difficult proposition to contend with.

The construction of the camp was a difficult proposition to contend with, difficult both in the sense of the word, but in the sense of the word, it was a difficult proposition to contend with, difficult both in the sense of the word, but in the sense of the word, it was a difficult proposition to contend with.

The construction of the camp was a difficult proposition to contend with, difficult both in the sense of the word, but in the sense of the word, it was a difficult proposition to contend with, difficult both in the sense of the word, but in the sense of the word, it was a difficult proposition to contend with.

The construction of the camp was a difficult proposition to contend with, difficult both in the sense of the word, but in the sense of the word, it was a difficult proposition to contend with, difficult both in the sense of the word, but in the sense of the word, it was a difficult proposition to contend with.

The construction of the camp was a difficult proposition to contend with, difficult both in the sense of the word, but in the sense of the word, it was a difficult proposition to contend with, difficult both in the sense of the word, but in the sense of the word, it was a difficult proposition to contend with.

The construction of the camp was a difficult proposition to contend with, difficult both in the sense of the word, but in the sense of the word, it was a difficult proposition to contend with, difficult both in the sense of the word, but in the sense of the word, it was a difficult proposition to contend with.

The construction of the camp was a difficult proposition to contend with, difficult both in the sense of the word, but in the sense of the word, it was a difficult proposition to contend with, difficult both in the sense of the word, but in the sense of the word, it was a difficult proposition to contend with.

The construction of the camp was a difficult proposition to contend with, difficult both in the sense of the word, but in the sense of the word, it was a difficult proposition to contend with, difficult both in the sense of the word, but in the sense of the word, it was a difficult proposition to contend with.

The construction of the camp was a difficult proposition to contend with, difficult both in the sense of the word, but in the sense of the word, it was a difficult proposition to contend with, difficult both in the sense of the word, but in the sense of the word, it was a difficult proposition to contend with.

The construction of the camp was a difficult proposition to contend with, difficult both in the sense of the word, but in the sense of the word, it was a difficult proposition to contend with, difficult both in the sense of the word, but in the sense of the word, it was a difficult proposition to contend with.

The construction of the camp was a difficult proposition to contend with, difficult both in the sense of the word, but in the sense of the word, it was a difficult proposition to contend with, difficult both in the sense of the word, but in the sense of the word, it was a difficult proposition to contend with.

The construction of the camp was a difficult proposition to contend with, difficult both in the sense of the word, but in the sense of the word, it was a difficult proposition to contend with, difficult both in the sense of the word, but in the sense of the word, it was a difficult proposition to contend with.

The construction of the camp was a difficult proposition to contend with, difficult both in the sense of the word, but in the sense of the word, it was a difficult proposition to contend with, difficult both in the sense of the word, but in the sense of the word, it was a difficult proposition to contend with.

The construction of the camp was a difficult proposition to contend with, difficult both in the sense of the word, but in the sense of the word, it was a difficult proposition to contend with, difficult both in the sense of the word, but in the sense of the word, it was a difficult proposition to contend with.

The construction of the camp was a difficult proposition to contend with, difficult both in the sense of the word, but in the sense of the word, it was a difficult proposition to contend with, difficult both in the sense of the word, but in the sense of the word, it was a difficult proposition to contend with.

The construction of the camp was a difficult proposition to contend with, difficult both in the sense of the word, but in the sense of the word, it was a difficult proposition to contend with, difficult both in the sense of the word, but in the sense of the word, it was a difficult proposition to contend with.

The construction of the camp was a difficult proposition to contend with, difficult both in the sense of the word, but in the sense of the word, it was a difficult proposition to contend with, difficult both in the sense of the word, but in the sense of the word, it was a difficult proposition to contend with.

The construction of the camp was a difficult proposition to contend with, difficult both in the sense of the word, but in the sense of the word, it was a difficult proposition to contend with, difficult both in the sense of the word, but in the sense of the word, it was a difficult proposition to contend with.

The construction of the camp was a difficult proposition to contend with, difficult both in the sense of the word, but in the sense of the word, it was a difficult proposition to contend with, difficult both in the sense of the word, but in the sense of the word, it was a difficult proposition to contend with.

The construction of the camp was a difficult proposition to contend with, difficult both in the sense of the word, but in the sense of the word, it was a difficult proposition to contend with, difficult both in the sense of the word, but in the sense of the word, it was a difficult proposition to contend with.

The construction of the camp was a difficult proposition to contend with, difficult both in the sense of the word, but in the sense of the word, it was a difficult proposition to contend with, difficult both in the sense of the word, but in the sense of the word, it was a difficult proposition to contend with.

The construction of the camp was a difficult proposition to contend with, difficult both in the sense of the word, but in the sense of the word, it was a difficult proposition to contend with, difficult both in the sense of the word, but in the sense of the word, it was a difficult proposition to contend with.

The construction of the camp was a difficult proposition to contend with, difficult both in the sense of the word, but in the sense of the word, it was a difficult proposition to contend with, difficult both in the sense of the word, but in the sense of the word, it was a difficult proposition to contend with.

INCOME TAX PAYERS

"IN THIS STATE"
Internal Revenue Collector Estimates There Will Be 50,000.

James J. Walsh, internal revenue collector for this district, announced Thursday that he estimates that there will be upwards of 50,000 income tax payers in the state of Connecticut for the year ending Dec. 31, 1917, taxes on which are due on or before March 1, 1918.

The income tax law has been greatly changed during the past year, and thousands of Connecticut citizens not included in the list liable to pay the tax a year ago must this year pay the tax on their 1917 incomes.

All persons liable under the income tax law are required to secure the proper forms from internal revenue officers, file their returns, and pay their taxes. Those neglecting to obey the provisions of the law are subject to penalties ranging from $20 to $1,000 and also to imprisonment.

Salaries, wages, earnings, farmers, merchants, professional men, tradesmen and all other classes of citizens and residents should familiarize themselves with the provisions of the new income tax law for their own protection from the penalties, according to Collector Walsh.

If your salary or wages or income amounted to $24.33 a month (that is, $292 a year) or over during 1917, and you are unmarried, you must make a statement of this income to the government and pay an income tax.

If you are married or support a family, you may be necessary for you to make an income return and pay the tax if your income for 1917 amounted to $168.66 a month (that is, $2,024 a year) or over.

The tax is on "net" income, and "net" income means what is left after subtracting expenses (but not family expenses) money used for the principal of a mortgage, new machinery, buildings or improvements. Expenses as meant by the law include what you spent in making your money—interest charges, taxes paid, hired help, amount paid for goods sold, stock bought for feeding, rent (except for your dwelling) and on the whole includes about every dollar you set.

A large number of special revenue officers have been instructed in the provisions of the new income tax law and will visit various parts of the state in order that all citizens may get in touch with them and learn what they must do.

POMOLOGICAL SOCIETY AND VEGETABLE GROWERS
Combined Meeting To Be Held in Hartford Next Week.

The production and conservation of food and the relation of the farmer to the successful carrying out of this program will be the keynote of the program of the combined meeting of the Connecticut Pomological Society and the Connecticut Vegetable Growers Association which will convene at the Hotel Hartford, Hartford, February 5, at Foot Guard Hall, Hartford, Connecticut.

Prominent on the program will be Governor Marcus H. Holcomb, as well as George M. Janders, chairman of the committee of food supply, Connecticut State Council of Defense, Robert Seville, United States food administrator for Connecticut, and Dr. Henry Hyde Bailey, of Cornell University, who is known throughout the country as one of the leading thinkers on agricultural topics and who comes to the meeting under the auspices of the food committee and the state food administration.

On Wednesday, February 6th, the evening of the convention, a conservation supper will be served which will feature many economical and appetizing dishes made from food products with the floor given to the speaker, Miss M. E. Sprague, home economics director for Connecticut, and Mrs. A. M. Dean, in charge of home economics for the new Farm Bureau, will have charge of this supper and the students in the Hartford High School domestic science classes will assist in serving the supper.

A number of interesting addresses and discussions have been arranged by Secretary H. C. Miles of the Pomological Society and Secretary G. P. Clinton of the Vegetable Growers Association. The list of speakers includes Dr. U. P. Hendrick of the New York Experiment Station; Howard W. Selby of the Eastern States Exposition; Horace W. Tinkham of Worcester, N. H.; Professor H. J. Gourley of the New Hampshire Agricultural College; Dr. R. H. Johnson of the New York Experiment Station; Professor Guy C. Smith of the Connecticut Agricultural College; Professor William Stewart of the U. S. Department of Agriculture; Professor W. W. Chownoweth of the Massachusetts Agricultural College; and the Rev. E. H. Southworth, president of the New England Peach Growers' Association, and others.

Woman and Boy Labor on Farms.
Many Connecticut farmers are ready to use properly selected woman and boy labor on their farms this year if the use of such labor is necessary to maintain the farm production of the state. The